WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

DANVILLE, KY.: Friday, Jan. 22, 1858.

LOCAL.

PAY THE PRINTER—We are compelled to have money to meet our liabilities, and purchase our winter stock. All those knowing themselves indebted to us, would greatly accommodate us by paying up at once.

WOOD! WOOD! Will those of our country friends who are indebted to us, bring us in wood? If not wood, then bring us flour, corn, oats, hog meat, or almost anything else which a family can use.

Col. G. S. Caldwell has our thanks for valuable State documents.

To Merchants and Shippers.—See advertisement of J. H. McCampbell, Esq.

CORRECTION.—We were in error last week in our announcement of the time Vice President BRECKINRIDGE's address the Alumni of Central College. The address of Mr. B. will be delivered on the evening of the 15th of September next, being the day before the Annual Commencement.

SALES ADVERTISED.—By Jas. E. WILKINS, Danville.—Land and Stock Monday, February 1, 1858.

By T. J. HUNSON, Boyle.—Land—Monday, February 15, 1858.

By E. A. COX, Boyle.—Land, Stock &c. Monday, March 1, 1858.

By JOHN S. HOKINS, Garrard.—Land, Stock, Crop, &c. Wednesday, March 3, 1858.

See advertisements, for particulars.

KENTUCKY HOTEL.—The advertisement of this house, formerly the "Logan House," in Lancaster, will be found in another column. Mr. PETTY, the new proprietor, is an experienced landlord, and will keep a tip-top house in every respect. We advise our friends who are fond of good living, to stop with Mr. P.

COUNTY COURT DAY.—But little business, apparently, was transacted on Monday last, notwithstanding the fact that there were a large number of people in town. The sales of stock were small; holders preferring to retain their stock until times and prices grow better.

Weatherford, auctioneer, reports sales of mules, 50 head two year $110 55 per head.

REPRESENTATIVE.—We are gratified to see that our worthy Representative, Col. CALDWELL, is faithfully representing the views of his constituency, in regard to the leading measures before the present Legislature. On the bill continuing the appropriation to the State Agricultural Society, Col. C. voted in favor of the appropriation—and on the bill repealing the act establishing the Normal School, his votes have been always on the side of educational progress, in opposition to the repeal.

M. T. Christman, Esq.

By referring to the proceedings of the American meeting held at the Court House on Monday last, it will be seen that M. T. CHRISTMAN, Esq., of this county, is recommended as the first choice of the Americans of Boyle, for Appellate Clerk. The American Convention, to nominate a candidate for that office, is to meet on the 27th, and we are certain that, among all the distinguished and competent gentlemen suggested as worthy of the position, there is not one more so than Mr. Christman. We say this, without detracting in the least from the merits of any who have been heretofore mentioned in this connection, for with several of them we are personally acquainted, and regard them as well fitted for the position.—Mr. Christman, however, being our fellow-countryman, we are of course, prepared to speak positively of his qualifications. He has been, since the adoption of the new constitution, the Clerk of our Circuit Court, the duties of which office he has discharged in the most prompt, faithful and correct manner. We do not affirm more than we will be sustained in by every one who knows Mr. C. when we say that he is in every respect one of the very best Clerks in the State—and is so regarded by all whom we have ever heard give any expression upon the subject. He is a fine scholar, and a very reasonable man, and has a knowledge of all the forms of law required in the discharge of the duties of Clerk to any of the Courts in our Commonwealth. Added to his eminent qualifications as a Clerk, Mr. C. possesses great personal popularity, wherever he is known, and his acquaintance is probably quite as extensive as that of any other gentleman whose names will be brought before the Convention. We shall of course cheerfully and readily acquiesce in whatever nomination the Convention may make, feeling confident that from so many who are fitted to the position, it cannot but select a well-qualified candidate. But our preference is decidedly for Mr. Christman, whom we believe capable of carrying the banner gallantly, and leading the party to a brilliant victory. There is not a truer American in the State—nor one who has been from the first more consistent and earnest in behalf of the men and measures of the party. We hope therefore, that the Convention will favorably consider his claims, and that "Mike" Christman will be chosen to "do the honors" at the Capital, as the next Clerk of the Appellate Court.

GRAECIA PAINTING.—We have had the pleasure of examining a number of paintings recently executed by the pupils of Mr. VENABLE. These pictures are very handsome and attractive, and are finely executed, notwithstanding the fact that those who painted them have as yet had but few lessons in the art. We are informed that this style of painting is very easily understood, and that but a short time is required for pupils to become so far advanced in the art that they can get up pictures which will compare favorably with the finest oil paintings.

Mr. VENABLE's rooms are at Mrs. Mary Cowan's, where he can be found by those who desire to acquire a knowledge of his beautiful science.

PENMANSHIP.—Prof. HOLCOMB is now engaged in teaching his several classes in penmanship, and we are glad to learn that he is meeting with gratifying encouragement. We would advise all those who desire to improve their penmanship, to avail themselves of the opportunity now offered them, as Prof. H. is a fine penman, and thoroughly understands the business of imparting instruction to others. His rooms are at Mrs. Mary Cowan's.

Capt. Laird, of Somerset, as learn from the American, is again dangerously ill, with hemorrhages of the lungs, and his recovery is despaired of.

AN INTERESTING INCIDENT.—Franklin, the philosopher, when quite a young man, after an absence of some time from home, thought he would try the extent to which instinct in a parent would discover the child. The result was that his mother was loth to give him shelter over night, though a severe snow-storm was raging, and would only allow him the use of an arm-chair to sleep in, having the colored boy to stay in the same room, after the precaution of locking up all her store. Her instinct was more than overcome by her pride, and she, with bitter tears, to the lust of her life, regretted that her son had thus been treated in his mother's home as a felon. One of our townsmen, on a recent trip to New England, after a thirteen years' absence, thought he would try Franklin's experiment. He rapped at his father's door, mentioning that he was weary, and asked if he could have lunch, and a room for the night. To his surprise, it was his father who met him at the door, and asked him, after telling him that he could not be supplied with food. The mother was not in the room, but as the father asked her to bring the refreshments, she came in.

With the feelings and emotions of a child, unknown under a parent's roof, one here turned his back, not on opening the door, but on the fact that he had been seen. He proceeded to partake of the lunch which his mother had prepared, and then, after a short rest, he retired to his room. He knew one whose name was R. "Oh yes, I knew him well," was the reply. "He is a hatter in the city, and made my hat"—showing it, with the maker's name inside. "Well," said the mother, "you must give me the lining, at any rate, for it's a long time since we have seen our son." At this time our friend could not further hesitate to make himself known, and what followed all can well imagine.—Real New Yorker.

THE RIGHT TALK.—A straight-out writer gives the following advice to those young men who "depend on father" for their support, and take no interest whatever in business, but are regular drinkers in the hive, subsisting on that which is earned by others:

"Come, off with your coats, clinch the saw, the plough handles, the axe, the pickaxe, spade—anything that will enable you to stir your blood. Fly around and tear your jacket, rather than be put in the hands of the old man's bounty! Sooner than play the dandy at dad's expense, hire yourself out to some potato patch—let yourself to stop hog holes, or watch the bars; and when you think yourself entitled to a resting spell, do it on your own hook. Get up in the morning—turn round at least twice before breakfast—help the old gentleman—give him now and then a good lift in business learn how to take the lead, and not to depend forever on being led; and you have no idea how the discipline will benefit you. Do this and our word for it, you will seem to breathe a new atmosphere, possess a new form, tread a new earth, wake to a destiny—and you may then begin to aspire to manhood. Take off, then that rag from your little finger, then your cane, shake your upper lip, wipe your nose, hold up your head, and by all means never again eat the bread of idleness, nor depend on father."

COOL IMPUDENCE.—The editor of a Western paper owes a bank about $1,000, for which they hold his note. The defaulting bank announces it thus in its paper: "There is a large and rare collection of the autographs of distinguished individuals deposited for safe keeping in the cabinet of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, each accompanied with a note in the hand writing of the autographist. We learn that they have cost the bank a great deal of money. They paid over a thousand dollars for ours. We hope great care is taken to preserve these capital and interesting relics, as should they be lost, we doubt whether they could be easily collected again. Should the bank, however, be so unfortunate as to lose ours, we will let them have another at half price in consequence of the very hard times."

THE FOLLOWING rich scene recently occurred in one of our courts of justice between the Judge and a Dutch witness, all the way from Rotterdam:

Judge.—What is your native tongue?

Witness.—I am no native.

Judge.—What is your mother tongue?

Witness.—Mine mother is dead.

Judge.—(In a savage tone)—What did you first learn?

Witness.—What language did you speak in the cradle?

Witness.—I did not speak no language at all in the cradle; I was a child in Dootch! Then there was a general lull in the judge, jury and audience all joined. The witness was interrogated no further about his native language.

MR. JENKINS was dining at a very hospitable table, but a piece of bacon near him was so very small that the lady of the house remarked to him:

"Pray, Mr. Jenkins, help yourself to the bacon. Don't be afraid of it!"

"No indeed, madam, I shall not," he replied. "I've seen a piece twice as large and it didn't scare me a bit."

A LADY—doting mother of a wretched lad—having bottled up a lot of nice preserves, labeled them. Put up by Mrs. W. (her name). Johnnie, her promising boy, having discovered the goodies, soon ate up the contents of the bottle and then wrote on the bottom of the label: "Put down by the Johnnie W."

NO STREET in Constantinople has a name, nor is there a lamp in it, yet there are 500,000 inhabitants! There is not a post office nor mail route in all Turkey, nor a church bell—but there are at least two dogs to every inhabitant.

"Oh, I'm so glad you like birds," said a young wife to her husband, "what kind do you most admire?"

Young husband—"Well, I think a good turkey, with plenty of dressing, is about as nice as any other."

"Where was I," said a little orphan, one day to his mother, as he stood gazing on his drunken and prostrate father, "where was I when you married papa? Why didn't you take me along? I could have picked out a better man than he is!"

A child's idea of ice.—"Water gone to sleep."

EXPERIENCE IN KISSING.—A correspondent sends Harper's Editorial Drawer, the following account of one of our Maine young fellows, who thus describes his battle, and final victory in a fair fight for a kiss of his sweetheart:

"Ah, now, Sarah dear, give me a kiss—just one—and be done with it."

"I won't! so there now."

"Then I'll have to take it, whether or no."

"Take it if you dare!"

So at it went, rough and tumble. An awful destruction of starch now commenced. The bow of my cravat was squashed in half of no time. At the next breath, my shirt and collar, and at the same time some of the head-fastenings gave way, and down came Sally's hair like a flood in a mill-dam broke loose, carrying away half a dozen combs. One plunge of Sally's elbow, and my blooming bosom was exposed to the consistency and form of an after dinner napkin. But she had no time to boast. Soon her neck tackling began to shiver, parted at the throat, and away went a string of white beads, scattering and running every way you could throw them. About the neck then fought fair, however, I must admit, and when she could fight no longer, for the want of breath, she yielded handsomely, her arms fell down by her side—those long, round, rosy arms—her hair hung back over the chair, her eyes were half-shut, as if she were about to hold them open a minute longer; and then lay a little plump mouth all in the air! My goodness! Did you ever see a hawk pounce upon a robin or a bee on a clover-top? Even so, I settled; and when she came to, and saw me up there, she seized me around the neck, and declared she would choke me if I ever did so again, and had a great mind to do it now. I just ran the risk over again, and the more she choked the more I liked it, and now she pays her own tips in the way of nine every day, and calls me her John, and don't seem to make any fuss about it at all. That was a very sensible girl, and she makes a good wife, too, as I am not ashamed to say anywhere.

CHARLIE THE DUTCHMAN.—Charlie the Dutchman arrived at Seaford some time ago, and "stuck down his stake." Major, who was very fond of a joke, and seeing that Charlie had his gun and was quite fond of gunning, proposed to him to go over one evening and shoot a crow in the thicket of pines belonging to Governor Boss. Charlie the Dutchman accepted, and was in great glee at the prospect of shooting half a dozen Yankee crows. The moon was shining sufficiently to make it a good evening for the night. Now, Major was aware that there was a large hornet's nest, and he took another road with the understanding that the one who first discovered a crow's nest should whistle, and the other would go to him.

"Major," here's one tam crow's nest as pig as a pushel."

"It probably has young ones in it," Charlie, go up and clap your hands on it and catch them."

Charlie doffed his coat and boots, climbed up the pine while the Major took the precaution to cover up. Charlie claps his hand on the nest.

"Mine Gott, Major, the nest is full of de little crows. Major, one little crow bite me. Major de tam little crows bite me all over. Mine Gott how dey bite. Major I'm coming; I tell you I'm coming."

And sure enough Charlie the Dutchman dropped to the ground and ran about a quart of a mile without his coat and hat to get clear of "de tam little crows."

Charlie returned to get his coat and hat while Major contrived to slip off quietly without being hit.

Charlie put on his hat, and a little crow, which had taken refuge in the hat took the opportunity to bite him on the head, and when he picked up his coat he found it covered with little crows.

"Mine Gott, Major, everything is covered mit tess tam little crows. I'm off, Major I'm off," and away went Charlie, and he did not stop as long as he could hear the buzz of the hornets.

After Major had recovered breath sufficient to speak, he explained to Charlie and Charlie saw the force of the joke.

"Now Major, if you don't tell us when you go home, I give you five dollar, and if you tell it you is one rascal, and I fight you."

But notwithstanding Charlie's bribes and threats, Major was engaged nearly all night in relating Charlie's adventure with de tam little crows.

CHARITY SERMON.—Deane Swift once preached a sermon on a charity sermon as to disgust his audience, which coming to his knowledge, and falling to his lot soon after to preach a sermon of like kind in the same place, he took especial care to avoid falling in the former error. His text was, "to that hath pity on the poor lengtheneth unto the Lord, and that which he hath given will he pay him again." Then, after preaching the text in a more than commonly emphatic tone, added, "Now my beloved friends, we hear the terms of the loan—if you like the security, down with your dust."

AN OHIO PAPER says that, during the recent tornado in that State, Miss White, a young lady of Crestline, aged 19 years was carried by the force of the wind several hundred feet, and left in the top of a cherry tree. She glided through the aerial space, hoops and all like a thing of air, and descended upon a tree within the vicinity and case of an eagle lowering to its nest. She escaped unharmed.

A DOG STORY.—The New Bedford Mercury says: We have received information from an authentic source, of a dog owned in Falmouth, that went to church regularly for years, and has attended punctually all the funerals in that town. At the death of his master this dog went to the funeral, and continued to visit the grave for some time, but since that event he never attended another funeral. This dog still continues to go to church with his accustomed regularity.

ETHAN COAT OF ARMS.—It was recently stated at an anti-Mormon meeting, that the arms of Utah consists of a bee hive, protected by a lion rampant, at whose feet is the American Eagle couchant, badly plucked.

AN IRISHMAN referring to the sudden death of a relative, was asked if he had lived high. "Well, I can't say he did," said Torrence, "but he died high. Just like the United States flag was suspended."

SPECIAL NOTICE

To any who may think it worth

their attention.

HAVING tested the PRACTICAL WORKING

of I. M. SINGER'S SEWING MACHINE,

I am prepared to recommend it to the sewing

community, as an invaluable help to those who have any considerable amount of sewing to do—and believing this, I have taken a Agency for the sale of said Machines in this and the adjoining counties. I will take pleasure in supplying any who may desire it, with this wonderful labor-saving invention. All information as to price and the different styles of the Machines, can be had by applying to me,

CASH FOR BEEF!

Positively, No Credit!

IN consequence of the high prices we have to pay for Beef and Mutton, we are invariably required to pay the Cash for our stock, we are necessarily compelled to require the Cash from all our customers. In future, all meat must be paid for before it is taken from the Market House, and this rule will be strictly adhered to. Therefore don't ask for credit.
